

ANCHORPOINT

Resume Connect

Every hour worked, every skill earned — documented, verified, owned.

LIVE PLATFORM

Resume Connect is a work and skills passport for young people whose experience doesn't fit a transcript: the welding cert and the lifeguard summers, the farm work and the first fast-food job, the machine-shop apprenticeship and the church tech booth. Families hold the account, kids build the record, verification is honest about its source — and the record belongs to the person it's about, permanently, with sharing that's private by default and never for sale.

WHAT IT DOES

Every kind of work counts

Trade skills and first jobs, volunteer hours and farm seasons — one record for everything a young person has actually done, not just what fits a form.

Verification that tells the truth

Tiered attestation — self-reported, guardian-attested, employer-confirmed, credentialed-verifier — so a claim carries exactly the weight its source earns. No inflated single badge.

Families hold the account

Parents and guardians own the account; young people build their profiles under it. Consent and oversight are the architecture, not a checkbox.

Private by default

No public profiles, no discoverable pages. Sharing happens through private, expiring links the family controls — a record shown on purpose or not at all.

Permanent sites

Trade schools, machine shops, farms, and rec centers can stand as attached verification sites — the places where skills are actually learned, on the record.

Owned for life

The record belongs to the person it documents. Export it anytime, take it anywhere — and it is never, ever sold. That's the promise the platform is built on.

WHY RESUME CONNECT

Proof beats claims

'Two summers on a framing crew' is a sentence. A documented, employer-confirmed record of it is an asset — for applications, apprenticeships, and first real interviews.

Built for real childhoods

Homeschool, rural, and blue-collar kids do real work that no institution documents. This levels a field that transcripts never covered.

Ownership is the product

Platforms that monetize young people's data have made the alternative obvious: storage and stewardship the family pays for and controls, with no second business model behind it.

WHO IT'S FOR

HOMESCHOOL & RURAL FAMILIES

Document the education that happens in shops, fields, and kitchens — with the same weight a registrar gives a transcript.

YOUNG WORKERS

Build a verified history from the very first job, and carry it into every application that follows.

TRADE SCHOOLS & EMPLOYERS

Stand behind the young people you've trained — and find candidates whose records show the work.

Start the record early.

Request a demo and see a young person's real work history — documented, tiered, and owned by the family — on one page.
